

ABSTRACT

OPTICAL BEAM SPLITTER APPARATUS

5

An optical beam splitter arrangement comprising two beam splitter mounts one of which can be rotated relative to the other by flexing a deformable connection. By controlling the angle of rotation it is possible to use the light reflected 10 by one of the beam splitters to monitor the output power of a laser and to use the light reflected by the other beam splitter to monitor the wavelength transmitted by the laser.

Figure 1

15